OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL, SATUEDAY, March 23, 1822.

The money market was about as last reported. There was a fair demand. Raies were unchanged, 10 to 12 per cent per annum. Sales of cotton to-day were 2000 bales at an ½ to ½ advance over yester day's sales. All classes of buyers were in the market. It is thought that the reaching selection so long looked for, and which has make several attem 2, it about to occur; however, should it come the coming week there will be a very active market, and one week sooner than we looked for. The general trade was dull, except in the drygoods and boots and shoe line. This line of goods has had a good run throughout the week.

Exchange is in active demand; Eags—The supply was light, and sales were made for choice at 180; holders in some instances asking 193.

received orders at a botter limit than for some time past. This indicates that New England spinners (of which we mentioned some time ago) are about to enter the market for their summer supply, being doubties convinced that planers are not holding back their cotton, but that as they have shipped freely during the season receipts would continue light the balance of the accessor, reducing the crop to isses than ork, per barrel, 80 c; beef and the season receipts would continue light the balance of the accessor, reducing the crop to isses than ork, per barrel, 80 c; beef and tork, per barrel, 81 is; whisky, per barrel. the session, reducing the crop to Issa than three million bales. These are the conclusions arrived at after carefully examining the situation, and this better feeling arises from the school demand among American three from the school demand among American spinners. The opinion gratuitously spread by New York brokers and others that prospects are favorable for a crop of 5,000, e00 bales the coming season is looked upon with general disfavor. In fact, prospects are less favorable for pianting then for assurable state. The weather the han for several years. The not receipts for the past three weeks have fallen off one-half compared with Southern State Securities—Southern same time last year. The demand during State bonds closed dull and steady as Hence it is not at all surprising that a better feeling is injected into our market, and the market generally; but it has been surprising that the cotton market has been so long depressed. The following, from a circular of Gates & Wood, Memphis brokers, will in a measure explain the reasons:

"We are constrained to make mention United States Securities—Govern bonds closed dull and steady—111% 5-20s of 1801—111% 5-20s of 1

We doubtless shall provoke a smile, probably of derision, for our temerity in introducing, in this bumble and so unknown a sheet, a subject of so much importance;
